

Native Education College

Where Learners Become Leaders

NEC Native Education College is the largest private Indigenous College in Vancouver and works with First Nations and Indigenous organizations to deliver programs in locations throughout British Columbia. We strive to combine academic excellence with a strong commitment to First Nations community-based education and the best practices of adult education. NEC offers a space for Indigenous learners to realize their potential in a supportive and cultural environment. Our certificate and diploma programs lead toward high-demand careers including health care, counselling, or administration. Students achieve success through learning practical skills with a hands-on approach.

Native Education College is excited to announce a brand-new program starting in September 2022. The Indigenous Digital Leadership certificate program provides training for entry into the position of Workplace Technology Support Specialist. The 6-month program is a sound basis for further education and impactful careers in technology systems in business and community settings. A critical analysis of cultures and communities allows graduates to further their leadership skills in building digital infrastructure.

In this program students will learn to:

- Set up and maintain workplace technology user systems
- Support organizations in maintaining network technology infrastructure
- Develop an online business presence and support cloud computing
- Communicate and engage with business teams on technology supports
- Use personal leadership and accountability as an effective member of a work team
