

YUKON UNIVERSITY

We are of the North

The North is so much more than a place. It is a way of life inspired by a vast, magnificent landscape—and steeped in First Nations' teachings and traditions. Adventure and opportunity are everywhere here. The Yukon is on the frontlines of climate change and Indigenous self-determination, making this an ideal training ground for the leaders of tomorrow. Connection is the currency of the Yukon. So, whether you're already a northerner—or on the verge of a northern adventure you'll talk about for a lifetime—lace up your boots to break trail with shared purpose and respect, together, toward a better tomorrow.

We are bold thinkers and change makers

YukonU, Canada's first university North of 60°, offers education, training and research opportunities that will equip you to seize opportunities, think boldly and lead positive change in your community, and beyond. We draw on northern expertise in Indigenous governance, sustainable resource development, the study of climate change and more. Our unique northern perspective will provide you with an experience like no other. We ground everything we do in the values of integrity, quality, relationship and a just society—empowering you to flourish, persevere and grow to contribute positively to a rapidly changing world.

We are a voice for reconciliation

At YukonU, we honour and respect the cultures, languages and heritage of Yukon First Nations, their traditional knowledge and worldviews by proudly walking alongside them on their path to self-determination and cultural revitalization. We acknowledge that Yukon First Nations are the traditional keepers of this land, and we are grateful for the collaboration and guidance that supports the delivery of inspirational and exceptional experiences at YukonU. Every employee and graduate must complete the Yukon First Nations 101 course to ensure core competency in northern and aboriginal knowledge and perspectives, the history and legacy of residential schools, land claims and self-government agreements, languages, and the history and culture of Yukon First Nations peoples. Together, we thrive on the Traditional Territories of 14 Yukon First Nations. For learners like you, this means you'll have opportunities to infuse your experience at YukonU with Indigenous traditional knowledge, perspectives, and ways of knowing, being and doing.

We have programs that lead to inspiring and rewarding careers

From Aviation Management to Business Administration, from Northern Studies to Indigenous Governance, from Renewable Resource Management to Northern Environmental and Conservation Sciences, from Practical Nursing to Education, from Culinary Arts to First Nations Arts, from Multi-trades for Mining to Earth Sciences—our programs position you for an invigorating career in fields expanding across the North. Many programs offer exciting research opportunities for you to work hands-on in the lab and field solving real-world problems, while connecting with potential employers and building your resume.

We can't wait to meet you!

For more information, please visit: YukonU.ca/your-path

Photo: Erik Pinkerton

Gain a whole new perspective, and a degree too.

Yukon University's flexible education, training and applied research opportunities reflect the cultures, values and landscapes of Canada's north.

We invite students from across Canada and the world to study with us and learn from this unique northern perspective.

Visit YukonU.ca/your-path to request information about YukonU programs and services.

