Hairstyling

Combine art and science to become a licensed professional hairstylist. Fleming offers the latest techniques and entrepreneurial skills from award winning professionals.

Fleming College's compressed program, designed by award-winning industry professionals, combines extensive hands-on training and theory to prepare students for a career as a licensed professional hairstylist. Graduates will have completed all required in-school training hours for the Hairstylist 332A Level 1 and 2 Apprenticeship.

Here they will learn and practice the latest skills in hairstyling techniques, including cutting, styling, naturally derived smoothing treatment, colouring, hair extensions and multicultural hairstyling in the newly designed on-campus salon within Fleming's Spa + Clinic multidisciplinary environment.

In Fleming's newly designed onsite Academy Salon, students will use environmentally sustainable products and practices to support health, ecological, social and economic wellbeing.

Community involvement is an important cornerstone within Fleming. In the final semester, students will take part in community outreach days, practicing their skills and building relationships with marginalized groups. Students in the graduating semester also organize and deliver a unique hair show with local community partners.

This program can offer individuals an exceptional entry into the hairstyling profession.

With an emphasis on entrepreneurship and hair salon business skills that include client rapport and retention, retail experience and essential business soft skills, graduates will be well-prepared to become their own boss or will offer future employers well-rounded skills that go beyond hairstyling skills.

Students can apply now to start this January 2024.
